DESCRIPTION: “A Nurse I Am” consists of two films that celebrate the art and science of nursing and salute those whose intellect, critical thinking and compassion facilitate healing.

Educational Film: A 32-minute instructional film features four nursing role models who are competent and compassionate and have a deep commitment to their patients and to their profession. All of them are recipients of the Cherokee Inspired Comfort Award (an annual award sponsored by Cherokee Uniforms). This film presents nurses in real-life situations in varied settings interacting with real patients, students and colleagues to highlight key points for a successful nursing career.

More than 40,000 students watch the film annually at more than 400 schools of nursing across the U.S.

Documentary: This 62-minute film chronicles the personal and professional lives of three nurse-recipients of the Cherokee Inspired Comfort Award. This documentary reveals what motivates these professionals to pursue excellence in every aspect of their clinical practice and shows how these nurses maintain personal balance in the midst of high-stakes, pressure-filled workdays.

MISSION: Cherokee Uniforms is so concerned about nurses leaving nursing within their first years of service that it awarded a grant to Emmy Award-winning filmmaker David Hoffman to create a film to encourage, inspire and instruct new nurses, nursing students and experienced nurses. Cherokee invites every nursing education program and healthcare employer in the U.S. to make “A Nurse I Am” a permanent part of educating and inspiring nursing staff and students.

Applicants must address the following questions in their essay:

Each of the nurses in the film A Nurse I Am was united in their complete care for the patients they served and went above and beyond the call of duty. As a nurse, you may be tempted to take shortcuts in patient care to meet demands and complete your workload—sometimes at the expense of patient-centered care. In light of the increased demands and workload that you may face as a nurse, how will you overcome the temptation to become goal-focused instead of patient-focused? What steps can you take as a student to help prevent this mentality and to view each patient as an individual worthy of your best work as a nurse?
